

ABSTRACT

METHOD FOR MAKING A WAVEGUIDE MICROWAVE ANTENNA

The manufacturing process for a microwave corrugated-horn antenna (5) using waveguide technology consists in forming the corrugations of the horn on the external surface of a block of synthetic foam and in then metallizing the surface of the conformed block of foam in order to form the antenna.

Figure to be published: Fig. 6